Summary

Game development passionate CS student eager to learn more about the videogame industry and its processes. I like to build things, and I consider myself a very creative and restless person. I love good design and elegance in all things I put my mind and skill to. I've participated in numerous Hackathons and I've been to a great deal of Game Jams, and did numerous side projects on my own as well. I love working with proactive and creative people and also sharing cool ideas with them. My biggest flaw is that I need to feel part of what I'm building to pour my 100% into a project.
